Private sector actors in agriculture trained on risk management

Some private sector actors in the agriculture industry have received specialised training on agricultural risk management in a Capacity Development Workshop organised by Platform for Agricultural Risk Management (PARM). The three-day workshop is the first of its kind exclusively for the private sector, aimed to equip participants with the tools and knowledge needed to manage risks associated with agricultural activities effectively.

PARM sensitises private sector stakeholders on agriculture risk management

The Platform for Agricultural Risk Management (PARM), in collaboration with the Italian Agency for Development Cooperation (AICS), has organised a trainer's workshop for stakeholders in the private sector. The participants included farmer organisations, exporters, processors, buyers, enterprise federations, women's organisations, chambers of commerce, and microfinance institutions.

PARM equips farmers with knowledge in agricultural risk management

PARM has trained private sector actors in the agriculture sector on integrating Agricultural Risk Management (ARM) into policies and institutional capacities, as well as in developing investment plans to better manage agricultural risks. The workshop, in collaboration with the Italian Agency for Development Cooperation (AICS), aimed to train actors and facilitate knowledge exchange among sector players to ensure that all individuals within the value chain are more resilient in risk management
